

A large white commercial airplane is parked inside a spacious hangar. The cabin door is open, and its built-in airstair is extended. The hangar has a high ceiling with visible structural beams and large windows that let in bright, warm light. The airplane is the central focus, with its nose and cockpit clearly visible.

There are thousands of aircrafts around the World. These aircrafts need to be in the air to the greatest extent possible, which puts huge demands on technical support, maintenance and logistics.

Supplying spare parts, in the aviation industry, is a very delicate and expensive task. Anyone who flies frequently relies on safety of the flight, which also includes supplying aircraft with original spare parts.

To provide well-functioning supply chain we work very closely with airlines and spare part manufacturers. We ensure high-level, top quality spare part logistics around the globe.
